

THE FEDERAL RESERVE BANK OF RICHMOND
RICHMOND • BALTIMORE • CHARLOTTE

“Mock Interviews”

Date: Thursday, March 14, 2013 – 9 a.m. – 4 p.m.

Location: Foster Hall, Room 202

We recognize the value of diverse perspectives in achieving our mission, and that's why we pursue the fresh perspectives of students through our campus recruiting and internship programs. The Richmond Fed's internship program focuses on providing meaningful work, inclusion, community service opportunities, structured developmental and social networking activities, a mentor program, and connection to our Employee Resource Networks.

Visit us at www.richmondfed.org

To apply for a position, follow the Careers links for on the home page or click on the briefcase icon at the top of any page.

- Create your profile, including your unique login and password.
- Once your profile is complete, attach your profile to an open requisition and hit "Submit." Your information will immediately come into the assigned recruiter's view.

The Fed Experience

The Fed Experience is an interactive exhibit that lets visitors explore their connection to the economy. The Fed Experience is open to the public and there is no charge to visit.

Careers

Looking for a career that is vital to the prosperity of the nation? Consider a career at the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond.

eKiosk

Careers

If you're going to be in the Richmond area, please stop by to visit our interactive exhibit – The Fed Experience – that lets visitors explore their connection to the economy. The Fed Experience is free and open to the public. Click the exhibit link on our Web site home page to find out how to arrange a visit.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond offers a wide variety of internship programs that cater to many major fields of study. Though the departments have been listed under a major category, many programs are applicable to many majors. We encourage all potential interns to be professionally courageous and apply for multiple positions. Listed are some of the projects that you may work on in each department.

District Human Resources